

Jacob Hook
Partner, Oliver Wyman

Jacob Hook is a Partner in Oliver Wyman's Sydney office, where he leads our Public Policy practice across the Asia Pacific region. Jacob has extensive experience consulting to leading public and private financial sector institutions across Asia Pacific and Europe and worked in our Singapore office for five years before transferring to Australia.

Jacob's expertise includes national financial sector strategy, regulatory architecture and organisational development, as well as securities, exchange, and wealth and asset management regulation. He also works on strategy issues for leading wholesale banks, asset managers, and wealth managers. During 2014 Jacob was an advisor to the Australian Financial System Inquiry.

Jacob holds a BA (Honours) in Political Science from Victoria University in New Zealand, an MA in International Finance and Banking from the Fletcher School, Tufts University. He is the author of a number of published reports on the financial services sector in Asia Pacific and a regular speaker at industry events. Jacob also regularly contributes to the policy debate on topical issues within the financial sector.