

Anna Wallace

Anna heads up the FCA's Innovation Hub, a unit that provides direct support to innovators in financial services, and was featured recently on the Business Insider's list of the 40 'coolest people in fintech'. She has over 10 years' experience in public policy from her time at the UK Government, European Commission and the UK financial regulator. Anna has been Press Secretary to the EU Commissioner for External Relations and Private Secretary to two First Ministers of Scotland and the CEO of the FSA. As a policymaker, Anna led the FCA's intervention in the payday lending market and Scottish legislation that saw the end to tobacco displays in shops.