

David Salamanca Rojas

Financial Regulation Unit, Ministry of Finance and Public Credit Republic of Colombia

Mr. Salamanca is the General Director of the Financial Regulation Unit at the Ministry of Finance and Public Credit Republic of Colombia. The Unit is in charge of regulating of bank, insurance companies, pension funds and capital markets. He worked at the Department of Financial Stability of the Central Bank of Colombia, at the Research and Development Department of the Financial Superintendence and as an advisor of the Deputy Minister of Finance. He was member of the Advisory Council of the Financial Superintendence as well.

He received a B.S. in economy and a master in economy from Universidad de los Andes; and holds an MBA from the Wharton School of Business of the University of Pennsylvania and a Master in Public Administration and International Development from the Kennedy School of Government of Harvard University.