Reinier POLLMANN

Programme Manager Innovation & FinTech, Dutch Authority for the Financial Markets (AFM)

Reinier Pollmann (1967) is Programme Manager Innovation & Fintech at the markets and consumer protection regulator in The Netherlands (AFM). His role is to make sure that the AFM understands the impact of innovations, and to make sure it responds appropriately. As part of that role he is responsible for AFM's InnovationHub to help companies to overcome undue supervisory obstacles, and cooperation with the other regulators in The Netherlands. The other part of his role is to act on new emerging risks that come with digitisation of services, artificial intelligence and crypto assets.

He joined the FSB taskforce that advised the G20 on the impact of fintech to financial stability.

Previous to his assignment on fintech, Mr. Pollmann was responsible for new supervisory tasks (2003-2006) and policy and international affairs (2006-2015). Mr. Pollmann's background before joining the Dutch regulator was product and project management in telecoms and energy sector. He holds an MSc in Chemical Engineering.
